The Academy's seat is the historical Pałac pod Globusem (Palace under the Globe) in Szczecin, handed over to house the Academy by the voivodeship marshal. The palace on Niepodległości Street and Kolumb Street (former Higher School of Applied Arts) also belong to the Academy.

The Szczecin Academy of Art is a new and modern institution seeking to operate on an international and interdisciplinary platform. Established artists and professors from the major academic centers in Europe are invited to cooperate and give guest lectures at the Academy. Within the next five years, after all the new programs are launched, the Academy is expected to have more students, i.e. the greatest number of students of all the arts higher education facilities in Poland.
